Burton Farmers' Club.
The last meeting of the Burton Farmers' Club was held on the 3d inst., at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. David Thorp, of Middlebury.

After the opening of the club by vice president R. C. Shepard, Messrs. Bowles, Randall and Rose gave their idea of a model farm. Though these gentlemen own and occupy fine and well tilled farms, it appears that they have not yet brought them up to that high state of perfection which they regard as model farms.

Mrs. Devendorf, Mrs. Rose, and Mrs. Snyder gave, in most excellent papers, their ideas of a model home.

Blanch Shepard gave the song, entitled "The Shadow of Angel's Wings."

Mrs. Randall read a very interesting sketch of the life of Mr. Merrill, her first husband, father of the late Wm. Merrill. His life was full of lessons of industry and economy, of which young men of today have very little knowledge. He still found time to cultivate his intellect and maintain a high social position among his friends and neighbors. He was a leader in church circles and all reform movements, and his reputation as a gentleman and a Christian, was without question.

Mr. Bowles was asked, "Which would give the greatest amount of berries, 100 rows, two feet apart, or 200 rows, one foot apart, not allowing the runners to grow?" He replied, two hundred rows, one foot apart would give the greater amount of fruit if the runners allowed to grow; two feet was too far apart.

Masters Chauncey and Lavern Woodin each gave a recitation, and Miss Lulu Woodworth, niece of Mrs. Thorp, recited with much effect, "The Little Girl's Lament."

Franklin David, infant grandson of the host and hostess, attended by his mother, Mrs. Stebbins, was among the guests, also the Misses Clara and Dora Fisher, nieces of Mrs. Thorp. These ladies are both teachers and rank among the first of their class in our county. Clara now has charge of the Dewey school in Owosso township, and Dora is installed in the Sherman school in the town of Sciota.

The next meeting will be held at the residence of Geo. Stanlake, the first Thursday in October.

University Extension Lecture Course.

The University Extension management has placed the lecture course tickets at 50 cents to all students in the city schools and to all persons under eighteen years of age. It is believed a large number of youths will avail themselves of this rare opportunity for learning American history. Tickets on sale at Parkill's and Collins' drug stores. Fifty cent tickets endorsed in red. Course tickets for adults $1.00. First lecture, Oct. 8th.

"Character Studies in American Development" is the general topic to be discussed by Prof. Sparks, of the Chicago University, in his six lectures before the Owosso Center, beginning Oct. 8. The six characters to be treated in this course are as follows:

Jonathan Edwards and the early church.
Benjamin Franklin and American Diplomacy.
John Marshall and the Federal judiciary.
Daniel Webster and the American bar.
Wendell Phillips and American oratory.
Horace Greeley and the American press.

The outline of the first lecture is as follows: 1. Church and state united in the colonies. 2. Church and state divorced in the states. 3. Attendant changes in religious thought. 4. Mission of the church in America.

As the syllabi have not yet arrived the following references will aid for the first lecture: American Statesmen Series, Patrick Henry, chapter iv; James Madison, chapter ii. The reference books for first lecture are in the school library also.

A word concerning the lecturer: Prof. Sparks' education began in London, O. After graduating from the high school he entered the Ohio State University, taking the A. B. degree in 1884, and the A. M. degree in 1889. While a student he tutored in history, and assisted Prof. John T. Short in the preparation of his Prehistoric Races of America and Industrial History of Ohio. He was a graduate student of Harvard in 1892, assistant in history in the Ohio State University in '94-'95; principal preparatory department and teacher of history in the Pennsylvania State College in 1895-'96; lecturer in American history in the American Society for the extension of University teaching in Philadelphia, 1892-'95; lecturer in the University Extension Division in the University of Chicago in 1895-'96. Last spring he was made assistant in history at the Chicago University, and is at present studying in Europe. He will return the last of the month.

From this preparation we must infer he knows his subject well. The best recommendation we know is that he is always solicited to deliver a second course of lectures.

One press notice says: "He is regarded as one of the most effective and promising men in the extension faculty. His subject is especially opportune, coming at a time where there is an unusual desire throughout the country to understand more thoroughly the principles and history of our government."

Notice will be given hereafter concerning the library and syllabi.

If you are afflicted with any chronic or nervous disease, or any other trouble, read the inducements offered by the Detroit Medical and Surgical Institute. Their propositions are surely fair and are such that they need no other recommendation. Read their advertisement on this page.
